

Dr Raffaella Conversano
Adjunct professor University of Bari,
Laboratory for Special Education,
Italy

Raffaella Conversano

Pr. Raffaella Conversano is specialized in Special Education and Media Education. She is an adjunct professor University of Bari, Laboratory for Special Education and a member of the research and experimentation teaching and methodology team of DISC in Communication Sciences, faculty of Sociology of Communication, university of Rome La Sapienza. Raffaella has conducted research and experiments on the most serious and very rare disability cases with the aim to ameliorate educational conditions of study. She has achieved to create and define the theoretical lines of innovative pedagogy – The Dis(ease)Ability -, with its methodology and teaching practice, the strategic use of technology in education and instructions on how to draw even the new App.

Raffaella has published in Italy and generally in Europe and has participated in International conferences (Italy, Greece, Spain, Turkey, Uk, USA, Singapore). Dr Conversano was the only Italian and European admitted to ITSE2012 held at Jiaotong University in Beijing in December 2012. Raffaella Conversano is also lyrical concert pianist graduated from the Conservatory.

