

Dr. Patrick Loh
Adjunct Professor
Amity Global Business School
India

Patrick Loh

Founder/Chief learning officer of Knowledgeworks Consultants, which focused on developing creative solutions to global problems, and instilling spiritual, moral and holistic mindsets in leaders and educators through own research, publications, training programmes, and consultancy services.

Dr. Patrick Loh has a total of about 25 years of experience spanning various fields in marketing, consulting, publishing, training and business, including about 11 years in the academia, and managing the operations of professional educational institutions. He is currently Adjunct faculty members of Amity Global Business School, and Founder/Chief learning officer of Knowledgeworks Consultants, which focused on developing creative solutions to global problems, and instilling spiritual, moral and holistic mindsets in leaders and educators through own research, publications, training programmes, and consultancy services.

He received his Ph.D from the University of Sunderland (UK), and Master of Commerce from the University of Strathclyde (Scotland) and professional qualifications in management, marketing, and communication studies from the U.K.

Patrick has published 10 books to date in fields ranging from global IT education, e-commerce to entrepreneurship/innovation, and managing global economic downturn. He has also reviewed and presented several papers in global conferences and academic journals in the past. Website: www.knowledgeworksconsults.com

