Minoa G. Saridomichelaki

Minoa Georgina Saridomichelaki received a BSc in Psychology from Cardiff Metropolitan University, City Unity College and a Bsc in Sociology from Panteion University of Social and Political Sciences. She continued enriching her competencies by receiving a Diploma in Applied Psychotherapy and Counseling from the Applied Psychotherapy and Counseling Institute of Athens. Her thesis “Framing and Cognition: Reframing national interest in USA Presidential debate” is an interdisciplinary approach combining social and cognitive psychology and political communication. Her academic experience in psychology and sociology engendered her research interests in the fields of framing, political communication, social stratification, cognitive biases and processes. She has participated in national and international conferences and published in national and international academic journals.
