

Miss Sophia Lam
PhD candidate
University College London, Institute of Education
United Kingdom

Sophia Lam is a PhD candidate at UCL Institute of Education, UK. Her research interests revolve around foreign language education, second language acquisition, teacher education and research methods. She received her Bachelor of Education (Languages) in The Education University of Hong Kong, to further enhance her professional knowledge, she obtained MA (Chinese Language and Literature) in The Chinese University of Hong Kong and MSc (Education: Language) in University of Edinburgh, United Kingdom. Sophia also has been a language teacher for almost ten years in secondary schools in Hong Kong, China and the UK.

During Sophia's PhD studies, she received two research funding in UCL. The first project is funded by UCL ChangeMakers which aimed to support international master students regarding doing dissertations. The details of the project can be found on the website: www.spireresearch.co.uk. The second project is funded by UCL Train and Engage, it aimed to provide training workshop for Mandarin teachers in the UK. The findings of the project were presented in the International Conference on Education (EDU2019) in Athens, Greece. The details of the project can be found on UCL Train and Engage website:

<https://www.ucl.ac.uk/culture/projects/2018-train-and-engage-projects-funded>

