The conference: 1-5 August 2021

After the organization of seven (7) successful Annual International Conferences (look at Previous Conferences of COMinG), the 6th Annual International Conference on Communication and Management (ICCM2021), aims to provide an opportunity for Academics, Professionals and Industry Experts from various fields, with cross-disciplinary interests, to discuss the future directives and innovations in Communication and Management.

This year, apart from the F2F conference, we propose remote participation, as some countries might still face travel restrictions. We will make our best to give participants (both face to face and remote) equal opportunities to meet, exchange, communicate. Additionally, registrants will be able to upgrade to in-person attendance if circumstances allow — or to shift from attending in-person to joining virtually if new restrictions keep them home.

Our main priority is your health security and seeing what has happened around the world with COVID-19 we should not take risks, no matter how much we would like to physically meet.

Please take a look at the Provisional Conference Program

Submissions deadline for ALL formats proposals: Tuesday 16 March 2021

We seek to build bridges between academia and professionals in the domains treated by this interdisciplinary conference. Thus we welcome Laboratories, Workshops, and Seminars to demonstrate projects, exchange and discuss ideas and share best- practices regarding the conference themes.

This year we propose (4) four thematic panels, with the purpose to give 4 important themes:

- a) Panel on 'International Leadership and Management'
- b) Panel on "Multidisciplinary Approaches to New Media Technologies"
- c) Panel on 'New Horizons in Journalism'
- d) Panel on Sustainable development

Presenters can either propose a paper presentation, or a poster, participate at a round table discussion, propose a workshop, etc. Please find here all the different formats you can propose for this conference. For paper presentations, please submit your abstract by email to registration@coming.gr , in .doc file using ICCM2021_Abstract_template. Decisions are reached
